CONSTANTINE ABDICATES THRONE OF GREECE

Last Barrier In the Way of Bond Sale Is Removed

The last barrier in the way of the successful sale of Albany's $200,000 school bonds has been removed, and at a special meeting of the Albany city council held Tuesday evening, a resolution was introduced instructing the mayor and city treasurer to make delivery of the school bonds to the Union Trust Company of East St. Louis, Ill., the successful bidders.

The latter now is in definite shape for speedy action. The necessary preliminaries will now be made for the erection of a commodious city school building. It is contemplated the building will be begun on January 1, 1923. Present at the meeting last night were Messrs Malone, Patterson and Bibb, members of the school board, and Professor R. W. Cowart, superintendent of city schools.

Owing to some unavoidable hindrances the bonds which were overwhelmingly voted several months ago are just now in shape to be delivered, there being some legal phases which it was necessary to meet before the matter could be finally closed.

2 SPEAKERS HEARD AT STRIKERS' MEET

The chief speakers at the Rail strikers' meeting, held at the Princess Theater this morning, were C. E. Millican, of Rome, Ga., an official of the Moulder's Union for a number of years, and Melvin Hutson, local attorney.

The usual crowd was present when Chairman Cherry called the meeting to order at 9 o'clock, when Chaplain L. E. Toon led in prayer.

Mr. Millican, advised that safe sane and Christian methods alone should be used in the efforts of organized labor. At the close of the meeting this speaker led in an earnest prayer.

When Melvin Hutson was introduced by the chairman, he was heartily greeted and made a most interesting address.

Pressman's Leader Makes His Report

(By Associated Press.)
PRESSMAN'S HOME, Tenn., Sept. 27.—Declaring the union has been "preyed upon by a group of meddlesome, unscrupulous lawyers," President George Berry, head of the International Pressman's Union, appeals for a concerted effort to preserve the stability and integrity of the union in his report, submitted to the biennial convention here.

Official Claws Reach for Love Nest Where Rector and Choir Leader Met

(International News Service.)
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 27.—Systematic search of the hotels and apartments in New York in an effort to locate the "love nest" which the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. James Mills are believed to have visited or occupied during frequent pilgrimages to the metropolis, was begun today by county authorities investigating the duel slaying of the rector and his choir singer.

The belief that Dr. Hall maintained a rendezvous in New York where he and Mrs. Mills spent numerous hours on many occasions, arises from the discovery that the couple made frequent journeys to New York together. These trips were clandestine and did not become known to relatives or friends until after the slaying.

Officials let it be known today that a number of persons are under surveillance, but would not divulge their identity.

Plans for the exhumation of Mrs. Mills' body were being made by Prosecutor A. M. Beckman, of Somerset County, but no date has been fixed for it. The conflict of testimony regarding her number and nature of wounds sustained by Mrs. Mills made an autopsy necessary, Beckman believes, in order that a complete record may be available in event of arrest and trial of any suspected slayer.

Ku Klux Klanswomen Beat Up a Woman

This photograph shows Mrs. I. C. Tatum, who was kidnapped from her home a few miles from Fort Worth, Texas, by a band of unmasked women, who asserted they were members of a secret society, and was whipped on the charge that she had mistreated her fourteen-year-old daughter. Mrs. Tatum denied the charges of the women that she had taught her daughter immorality. It is declared the women are members of an auxiliary of the Ku Klux Klan.

SALESMAN FOUND DYING; HE MAY HAVE HAD POISON BOOZE

(International News Service.)
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 27.—Irby Morgan, 35, a salesman of Nashville, died at the Hillman hospital here this morning after having been rushed there by police who found him in what they thought was an intoxicated condition in a downtown alley.

A bottle, containing a small amount of whiskey, was found on his person. Police incline to the theory that the whiskey may have been poisoned and it is being analyzed. Morgan is said to have resided in the fashionable Belle Meade Park section of Nashville.

EXPLOSION OCCURS AS NO. 4 PASSES

A charge of dynamite is alleged to have exploded near the concrete bridge on the L. & N. railroad track in Decatur about 11:30 o'clock Tuesday night. How the dynamite got there is a mystery, but fortunately no great damage was done. The explosion is alleged to have occurred about the time number 4, northbound passenger train, passed that point and that a window glass in the passing train was shattered by the force of the explosion, according to a report from military headquarters today.

FUNERAL THURSDAY FOR DEAD SENATOR

(Associated Press.)
THOMPSON, Ga., Sept. 27.—The final preparations for the funeral of Senator Thomas E. Watson, who died Tuesday in Washington, and whose body was expected to reach here tomorrow morning, have been completed.

The services will be held at "Hickory Hill," the Watson home, at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Rev. E. J. Forrester, of Sparta, a close personal friend, officiating.

BOSWELL DECLARES HIMSELF UNABLE TO SERVE AS A MEMBER OF DECATUR COUNCIL

Technical Question, Involving Polls Payment, Cause Of His Action

THANKS HIS FRIENDS FOR SUPPORT IN ELECTION

C. T. Royer Probably Will Be Named For The Fifth Place

W. F. Boswell, elected a member of the Decatur city council at the recent municipal election, today made public a statement declaring he was unable to accept the place, because of a technical question involving the time of payment of his poll tax.

Only one step remains to end one of the most unusual tangles in the history of Tennessee Valley municipal politics—the election of a successor to Mr. Boswell.

The latter action will be taken at a meeting of the Decatur council Thursday, it was stated today. C. T. Royer, who fell 12 votes behind Mr. Boswell for fifth place on the aldermanic body will be elected automatically as a member of the new council, according to many legal opinions.

The latter base their theory, it is understood, that if Mr. Boswell is unable to serve because of disqualification for non-payment of polls, it would mean that his votes would assume the status of not being counted at all, and it would follow necessarily that the candidate who received the next highest number of votes would become a member of the new board.

In his statement Mr. Boswell thanks the voters of Decatur for the trust they reposed in him and expressed his regret that he was unable to serve.

The election of Mr. Boswell and subsequent disqualification compose an unusual chapter in the state's municipal affairs. He was nominated by his friends as a candidate for membership in the council. His name appeared on the registered list of voters of the county. In his own words "he did not believe he would be elected." However, before the election, he became doubtful that he had paid his poll tax at the proper time. The question he raised himself caused an examination of the tax records of the county, which later led to Mr. Boswell's announcement that he was unable to serve.

PASTOR RETURNS.

C. H. Woodroof, local minister of the Church of Christ, East Jackson Street, has returned to the city and will conduct the prayer meeting tonight. Mr. Woodroof has been away on an extensive evangelist tour, resulting in many conversions. He will resume his duties with the church and asks all the members to cooperate with him in his work.

DID YOU KNOW

No one could ever accuse William Henry Harrison, the ninth president of being an advocate of race suicide as he was the father of ten children, six sons and four daughters. He was born Feb. 9, 1773, at Berkeley, Va. He attended college at Hampden-Sidney and graduated in 1790. He entered upon his duties as president at the advanced age of 68 and served the shortest term of any president America has ever had; his incumbency being cut short after one month's service by an acute attack of bilious pleurisy. He died in the National capital and was buried in North Bend, O. His term of service was during the year 1841.

Next John Tyler.

WIFE CHASES HUSBAND 5,000 MILES.

Mrs. Bessie Brehms, mother of two children, trailed her violinist husband, William Grehms, 5,000 miles from their native Prague, in Czechoslovakia, to Wheeling, W. Va., where she had him arrested pending his extradition to New York. She found him living comfortably with two women in a studio apartment and begged aid for herself and their two children, but he spurned her.

KIWANIS CLUB TO INSPECT OIL WELL DURING THURSDAY

The management of "English Well No. 1," the official name of the possible oil well that may spurt out of the depths near Austinville, will have as guests tomorrow afternoon local members of the Morgan Kiwanis Club and its guests.

It is the purpose of Mr. Barry and his associates to call attention to the history of the well which has now reached the depth of 2,173 feet, and to the many natural difficulties that have been surmounted. Just at present the work at the well concerns the removal of large quantities of broken stone from near the present bottom of the well.

The stone in question was reamed off when it was decided to enlarge the diameter of the well down to the 2,000 depth from 8 to 10 inches.

For about two months this reaming has been in progress and the remainings following the law of gravitation, fell further and further down as the work progressed.

It was found necessary to enlarge the well as the company had plenty of the larger sized casings but only a limited supply of the smaller casings, according to Major B. F. Holmes, fiscal agent.

Shortly all the loose stone will be removed, it is stated, and then the drilling will begin again, just as it did when the well was first started many months ago. It might be explained that the casings referred to are necessary to keep the well from caving in and to keep the springs of water that are encountered as the drill goes downward from rushing in and flooding everything.

It was the original and announced intention of the promoters of English well No. 1 to sink it to a depth of 3,500 feet, if oil was not struck before that depth was reached.

The management is receiving congratulations and is being encouraged by citizens of the Twin Cities to stick it out until oil is forthcoming, or until the exact reason why is known beyond the shadow of a doubt.

EXCITING BATTLE FOR SOLON'S SEAT LOOMS IN GEORGIA

(Associated Press.)
ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 27.—One of the most exciting campaigns in the history of Georgia politics will develop for the seat of the late Senator Watson, it is being predicted by political observers.

In the event the chairman of the Democratic executive committee does not call a primary to nominate a candidate for the unexpired term, the state convention, which convenes in Macon next month, is expected to endorse a candidate.

John Le Croix Is Released on Bond

John LeCroix was released from the county jail Tuesday making bond in the amount of $1,000. His arrest and incarceration grew out of the alleged shooting into a residence near Crowton Saturday night at which time three occupants of the house are alleged to have been wounded by the discharge.

Wages of Sin Are Higher in Georgia; Home Breaker Gets a Broken Spine

(International News Service.)
CORDELE, Ga., Sept. 27.—In Indiana a learned professor of a great law school said he heard his wife confess that another man was the father of her child. The learned professor filed a suit against the merchant his wife named and that suit is being fought out in Indiana courts, where the wife has gone on the stand to tell of her shame.

Down in the Deep Creek neighborhood, in Crisp County, Ga., on the Cordele road, a wife told her husband an identical story, but there was no suit. Instead Lawton Nipper, a prosperous young farmer, is dying with a

OFFICIAL ADVICES ON REVOLUTION RESULT REACH LONDON; TWO POSSIBILITIES OPEN

Understood Constantine Made No Reservations in Letter Of Resignation

RETURN OF VENIZELOS REGARDED AS POSSIBLE

Revolutionists Said To Be In Control of Entire Greek Navy

(By International News Service.)
LONDON, Sept. 27.—King Constantine, of Greece, has abdicated as the result of revolution, said official advices from Athens this afternoon. It had been reported since Tuesday night that Constantine had renounced the Hellenic throne, but it was not until this afternoon that the British government received official confirmation of the rumors.

It is understood that Constantine in his letter of resignation made no reservations. There are two possibilities open:

1. A military dictatorship at Athens.
  2. The ascent of Crown Prince George to the throne.
- Former Premier Venizelos, the "strong man of Greece," who became an exile when Constantine returned to Athens, may return to Athens.
- The Greek cabinet has resigned. Constantine was forced from the Hellenic throne by revolution beginning in the navy and spreading to the army. Revolutionists held Constantine responsible for the Greek debacle in Asia Minor.
- Constantine, who formerly was an exile in Switzerland, is understood by the Athens correspondent of The London Daily Mail to be preparing to go to the United States with his wife, (sister of the German Kaiser) to live in the New York residence of the son of Mrs. William Leeds, his sister-in-law.

(Associated Press.)
LONDON, Sept. 27.—Greece is in the grip of a revolutionary movement. King Constantine is reported to have signed an abdication decree without reservation. At least part of the navy has gone against the government and several warships, manned by the revolutionists, are believed to be advancing on Athens. Direct advices are lacking.

bullet through his spine. Will Clack, the husband, who says he heard the confession, is in jail at Colbert. He admits firing the shot.

The tragedy was in the making several weeks ago, it was said today. The young farmer, becoming suspicious of his wife, when he became aware she was to become a mother, demanded of her the name of the babe's father. She protested, he said, that the child was his, but later confessed that its father was Nipper.

Clack said he prepared to sell his holdings and leave Georgia, but yesterday he encountered Nipper. No words were wasted. Clack fired and Nipper fell.

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF HENRY FORD'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

WHEN WE COME TO THE HILLS.

When we come to the hills along the way of life, and cast doubtful glances up toward their summits, sensing the great effort which it will be necessary to put forth to reach their top, it is often that the frail strength of humanity falters, and is prone to make the effort to go ahead. Often at such times there is almost a superhuman amount of strength, fortitude and courage which comes to us, and unconsciously we take up the duties and before we are aware of it, are up to the top bathing in the sunshine of gladness and joy which comes with duty well performed. These things come to every one. To the merchant behind his counter, solving the problems of exchanging merchandise for money; to the mother in the home, where multiplying duties every day are to be met and disposed of; to the father of the home, striving daily to make the necessary revenue to meet the necessary needs of the household, often wondering if it will be sufficient; the newspaper man at his desk, who takes his readers into his confidence, and with them pulls together for the upbuilding of the country and town where each abides, to make of it a better place in which to live. These are things which endure; they are of every day occurrence, and they inspire us to higher heights and spur on to nobler attainments. Their product represents the gold of life after the dross has been separated from it.

BRITISH RESENTMENT AT THE POST WAR ATTITUDE OF AMERICA.

Readers on public affairs which concern this nation and England have been brought face to face of late with many articles dealing with British disappointment because this country has apparently lost interest in the war and the problems it has created. A number of English writers, including Kipling, have waxed bitter because of the failure of America to enter the League of Nations, and to support a number of other post war plans fostered by Great Britain. Just as a matter of sentiment or of self interest to either of the two great English speaking nations this post war controversy has small merit; but when it comes to a consideration of what a series disagreement between this country and England may have on the future peace of the world, thoughtful people should consider seriously.

One prominent writer declares that "the existence of friction and prejudice between America and Great Britain is a standing menace to the peace of the world".

It is worthy of notice that not alone in England, but in this country as well there is much sentiment to the effect that not only as regards the league, mandates and the like, but in regard to the war debt America has not acted with proper consideration.

No less an authority than Mr. Leffingwell, assistant Secretary of our Treasury during the war and who has been credited with making and executing many successful plans for financing the World War, is out in an article in the "Yale Review" in which he all but says that England has not been treated fairly as regards her debt to America. Leffingwell says that there will always be friction between the two countries until the question of the debt is approached in frank and honest manner—which is as much as to say that the debt question has NOT been handled either honestly or fairly.

The English are represented as not faulting what has been done to them since the war, so much so they regret that America, the one nation, that was expected to back Britain against all comers should have been the nation to kick her down cellar, so to speak.

The recent happenings in the near East have not tended to promote love and unity between England, the nation that is seeking to have the Dardanelles controlled by the League of Nations, and the country that almost scornfully said through its President, Mr. Harding that the "League was deceased".

Because the two great nations in question are evidently unable to produce bold and resourceful leadership, they are moving toward mutual misunderstandings which may some day engender hatred and revenge.

AS TO THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

The biggest factor in the coming business revival is the fact that the nation is sufficiently amused with business stagnation.

There are clouds along the business horizon but they are lined with a golden determination of our people to get busy and do something.

The unwillingness of business interests to let the Ford Auto works shut down but for a moment, indicates that as a people "we have a will to work." One of the big clouds over business is the continued inability of the nations beyond the sea to buy our products of farm and factory in large quantities. We cannot reasonably expect unbounded, world wide prosperity as long as war and poverty reign in Europe. But it is a fact that the needs of this nation and the two Americas are so great, our own demands are so numerous, that there is no reason under heaven why, from now on indefinitely we should not enjoy a large measure of prosperity.

With cotton staying around 20 cents a pound, and with the continued efforts being made to organize the farmers to where they will demand and secure better prices for their great money crop, there is no reason to believe but that the Southern farmers are going to have money to spend. And farmers are planning to conserve their wealth more carefully than ever, by getting their land in the future to feed them and their teams. No such a financial disaster for the farmer need be expected again as came to him something more than a year ago. Henry Ford's successful fight against unfair coal prices will help the manufacturer at this time. Every step in the right direction helps in a time like the present, for a larger restoration of business. For so many months has business been confined and held down, that the slightest stir of the breezes of promise in the tree tops will be welcomed.

The people may be depended upon to increase their buying power—if for no other reason than from the very fact that necessity is forcing them to supply their actual wants.

In a word, indications point to a good fall and winter trade, with plenty to do for many months to come.

A REAL RECORD.

Anderson Brothers and Foster, the big store of Columbia, Tenn., are celebrating the thirty-first anniversary of their history as a business this week.

The story of their business history reads like a romance and tells of an expansion which is amazing, but the thing which impresses a newspaper man most is the statement made by the Columbia Herald that in thirty-one years of the life of the store no issue of the paper has appeared which did not carry an advertisement or Anderson Brothers and Foster.

Mr. Merchant, you can find in that statement one of the big keys to the success of this firm. They used truthful advertising every day in the year as one of the foundation stones of their business.

With the single exception of the picture shows of Florence there is not a single business in this city which can truthfully say that it has carried an advertisement every business day even one year.

To be successful in the fullest measure advertising must be truthful, forceful and consistent—and consistent means day in and day out and week in and week out through the whole year. You can't advertise once a week, or month and figure that you are doing any real advertising.

You must tell your story over and over and over—day after day and week after week, in good times and bad times, if you hope to hold the attention and the buying confidence of your public.

Get the moral Florence business men—persistent advertising will win. Try it out.—Florence News.

We cannot stay upon the hillocks of life all the time, but one thing is sure; when we are in life's valleys we can look upward and catch the glinting rays of light which emanate from it, and thereby make sure that we will not lose contact.

Kemal, Turkish ruler of Angora, seems determined England shall not get his goat.

Now that the summer flowers are practically all gone, the flowers of fall are beginning to appear and are appreciated all the more because they are the only flowers now for a while. The chrysanthemums are one of the most beautiful flowers of fall, and have an odor which is very invigorating. On a cold crisp morning these autumn flowers have an appeal which is indeed inviting. Under the careful and patient training of the florist, these flowering plants produce blooms of large dimensions and the chrysanthemum shows in many sections are things of rare beauty.

There is now in bloom in many places the honeysuckle, the trailing kind, which infests hedge rows and blooms without any care whatever. No one can pass a honeysuckle vine at this season without being attracted to it by the fragrance of the fragile blooms, which shed a perfume for some distance all about. The Southland has three distinct varieties of honeysuckle. One the wild flower of this species which blooms in the early spring along the creeks and mountain sides of this country. The other is the trailing kind mentioned above. The other is the species which grows to considerable dimensions, but does not spread, being confined to one vine. The perfume of honeysuckle and the song of the mocking bird will ever be associated together in the Southland. Oftentimes this bird selects this vine for a place in which to build its nest and rear its young. The mocking bird is distinctly a home bird, and always selects its nesting place close to some residence or orchard.

One cannot help being impressed with the rapidity in which the forests of the state are rapidly disappearing. Along the railroad towns of the state there can be seen each and every day loaded wagons of lumber, coming from the many and small saw mills which abound in every section. The lumber is hauled to the railroad points in the rough, and there sold to the planing mill owners who finish it and sell in car lots to buyers in all sections of the states. Walnut timber has become extinct, and choice white oak, of which there was formerly great quantities is following close in its wake. There is yet considerable quantities of pine timber available, much of it being far removed from the railroad points. Hardwood lumber is vanishing at an alarming rate. In just a few years with the present rate of cutting and sawing, it will be necessary to buy this class of lumber from other states.

With the passing of Senator Thomas E. Watson of Georgia; whose death occurred at the national capitol at an early hour Tuesday morning, there passed from the public forum one of the most conspicuous figures in national politics. To many he impressed himself as being extremely radical in his views on many of the public questions of the day, and there was never any doubt as to where he stood on matters of public interest. Mr. Watson attracted considerable attention throughout the nation during the present year, when he sought to bring responsibility for alleged hanging of American soldiers during the World war. He was a forceful debater, and could hold his hand in quick repartee with those he measured wits with. He was an intense Southerner and never let an opportunity pass to hold up the hands of the South. He was very earnest in all he undertook, and whenever he felt he had cause to place a blame, he never wavered, be the objects of his attack in high or low estate.

When we say the Turk is "unspeakable," we mean he is so bad no words can fitly describe him. He can speak all right—that is the speech of his cannon was understood by a number of great Christian nations.

Henry Ford having just bought 800 cars of coal advises that we not buy it. That is the first time Brother Henry ever even seemed to be inconsistent. However, not many after having examined the condition of his check book, will buy much coal.

Not the guns of the Turks, nor their intense faith will spread their religion. The jealousies and bickerings of so-called Christian nations that have let down the bars to the Mohammedan.

Five men and three officers were recently dashed to death from an Army-Navy airplane. It in time of war we can learn to become as successful in killing enemies, our "next" war is as good as won.

We should worry—not. Christmas Island observations made recently by scientists may discredit the Einstein theory of "relativity"—and then again they may not.

Fashion or comfort is in for a great victory, or a great defeat in the attempt to bring in the stately middle age skirt. Some wise ones say that now that women have learned the convenience of shorter skirts they will never relinquish them for "pavement sweepers".

The Turk may dare to beard the British lion in his den to secure control of the Dardanelles, but if he does he will have to kill the lion or get killed.

MOST SACRED HOLIDAY ON JEWISH CALENDAR TODAY

Sunday evening, Oct. 1, inaugurates with all its solemnity the Day of Synagogue, Yom Kippur, the holiest day of the Synagogue. On that day and again on Monday, from morning till eventide, the Jewish people will foregather for worship in their several synagogues in all parts of the world. Those removed from their families will endeavor to be among the family circle on this solemn occasion. Soldiers and sailors of Jewish faith are granted furloughs in order to observe appropriately this holiday. Wherever the Jewish people happen to be, whether few or many, they will cease from worldly concerns and give themselves wholly to thoughts of repentance.

More than any other holiday of the Synagogue, Yom Kippur revives the confidence of the Jew in the ultimate triumph of God's love and justice. However sadly he has fared, despite misfortune and untold affliction, he goes to his synagogue on the Day of Atonement.

The outward form of observing practiced by the Jewish people on this day is abstention from food and drink. The intent of this ceremony is to afflict the soul, in order that the worshipper be better disciplined to exercise self-control and direct his actions for the upbuilding and betterment of humanity.

The Day of Atonement can be traced back to ancient days and in the long career of the Jewish people it has undergone many transformations.

When it is first noted in the Mosaic Code it is a day when the high priest in the Temple expiated the sins of the people. The mass of the people were to observe that day from evening to evening as a Sabbath, and a fast day to obtain pardon for their sins. In Leviticus 16:2-14 the elaborate priestly ritual of "making atonement for the holy place and because of the uncleanness of the children of Israel and because of their transgressions, even all their sins" is described. The high priest was the central figure of the ritual. He sought forgiveness for his own sins and those of his household and then for all the people. A very primitive rite which was revived for use on the Day of Atonement of this very ancient period was the selection of two goats, one of which was to be sent to Azazel, the demon of the wilderness, to bear away the sins of the people, while the other was to be offered to the Lord as a sacrifice.

In contrast to the priestly monopoly of service with its archaic forms of expiation, the founders of the Synagogue invested Day of Atonement with a more spiritual meaning and one that was more in accord with the prophets of Israel who associated with God the attributes of love and mercy.

According to these teachers of Judaism repentance could not be obtained through any other mediation than the personal effort of the sinner to purge himself of his evil thoughts, and to mend his evil ways by his own personal effort and the stout resolve to cleave unto God and walk in His ways. Confessing his sins before God with a contrite heart combined with practical efforts to harmonize his deeds with those laws of love and life proclaimed by God, constituted the true repentance and lifted man up from his low estate to sit among princes. Forgiveness sought not only for Jew but for all mankind.

In modern times a memorial service is included. This service reminds the worshipper that death is a consummation of life and that no one who has lived worthily is forgotten nor his life's effort void. The memorial service is crowded with tender memories and utilizes the solemn moments to impress on the congregation the imperative need of duty and service to God and country.—Montgomery Advertiser.

A Statement TO THE VOTERS OF DECATUR By W. F. BOSWELL

Knowing the merits of all the good men you had nominated for City Aldermen it did not dawn upon me till the votes were counted that you would choose me as one among these to be honored with election else I certainly would have sought legal advice and have ascertained whether or not I could qualify if elected.

Lest some may not understand I wish to say that when my friends first suggested nominating me I told them I could not vote at this time as I had failed to pay my taxes in time for the collector to accept the poll tax. It was suggested this would not disqualify me from serving if elected. However, I tried to let it be generally known I could not vote at this time. Though my name appeared on the certified list of voters, I did not vote.

Under the State laws I find no one is qualified to hold office who failed to pay their poll tax before February 1st, preceding date of election. I am therefore not eligible to serve.

Never before have I been so honored and it is a regret of a life time to me that I cannot serve you officially and in a measure prove my appreciation of your confidence.

To know of all the good votes cast in my behalf makes me think of the "Pearls cast to the swine," and I am "it."

That's just how I feel about it.

I hope you will accept my thanks, that you will pardon an unintentional error and believe me sincere.

Yours gratefully,

W. F. BOSWELL.

A SWEET LITTLE BABY BOY

Makes a Bright Spot in Every Home. A Comfort in Years to Come

Park Rapids, Minnesota.—"I have taken your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—when I was a girl for pains and before and after my marriage. I now have a sweet little baby boy and will send you his picture if you wish to publish it. My sisters also take your medicine and find it a great help, and I recommend it to those who suffer before their babies are born." —Mrs. Wm. Johnson, Box 155, Park Rapids, Minn.

To marry and arrive at middle age without children is a great disappointment to many women. Think of the joy and comfort other women have in their children as they grow older.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to bring great happiness to many families by restoring women to health. Often the childless home is due to a run down condition of the wife, which may be helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It brought health and happiness into the home of Mrs. Johnson. WILLIAM FARNUM IN
HENRI BERNSTEIN'S PLAY

Princess Friday presents an old-time society folk-rubbing shoulders with the newly rich in William Farnum's latest William Fox picture, "Shackles of Gold."

The play is based on Henri Bernstein's great stage success "Samson," which, as all followers of the stage know, was a strong, thrilling play. In the screen version under the able direction of Herbert Brenon, William Farnum is declared to have achieved another notable success.

He begins as a dock laborer, rises to great wealth by shrewd speculation in oil, and marries a girl who consents to become his wife merely to cause her parents need. Farnum's wealth to maintain their social position. She scorns Farnum and his love. He bears his position patiently until he learns she has gone to a cabaret with another man.

Then come the deadly wrath and the big thrills. Farnum breaks the market to ruin the man who had tempted his wife. He breaks the man and himself. But through the strange workings of the human mind he wins the very thing he thought impossible—the love of his wife.

"Samson" was a strong play. William Farnum is said to make it even stronger and more thrilling.

"THE SONG OF THE SOUL"

WITH VIVIAN MARTIN

At the Star today, Vivian Martin comes into her own in her first production to be presented by Keasmore Kendall and Robert W. Chambers, "The Song of the Soul." The photoplay, which is released by the Goldwyn Distributing Corporation, is based upon a story by William A. Locke and furnishes Miss Martin with a genuinely dramatic role which gives her a greater opportunity to act than her previous screen comedy roles.

Miss Martin portrays Barbara Seaforth, a blind girl. The role is an exceptionally difficult one. It is necessary, naturally, to interpret the part without the aid of the eye except insofar as to denote blindness. But so charmingly and intelligently does she use her features that she succeeds admirably in her unusual part.

"The Song of the Soul" will be seen at the Star Theatre beginning today.

Black-Draught Recommended by an Arkansas Farmer Who Has Used It, When Needed, for 25 Years.

Hatfield, Ark.—Mr. G. W. Parsons, a well-known farmer on Route 1, this place, says: "I keep Black-Draught in my home all the time. It is the best all-around medicine I have ever found for the liver and for constipation. We began using it 25 or more years ago and have used it whenever needed since. I have never found any other medicine as good for constipation, and that was what I suffered with till I began using Black-Draught. Black-Draught corrected this condition, and now we use it for the liver and for indigestion—a light and sluggish feeling after meals, for bad taste in the mouth and sour stomach."

"My wife uses it for headache and biliousness. It sets on our shelf and we don't let it get out. It has been a great help to us. I believe a great deal of sickness is caused by hurried eating and constipation, and Black-Draught, if taken right, will correct this condition."

The distribution of the population of China is a curious thing to contemplate, says Eleanor Franklin Egan, in the Saturday Evening Post. Moreover, they will not have established a single feature of city organization. Villages of 100,000 inhabitants are rather difficult to visit, but they exist in China.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The old mansion at the northwest corner of Lafayette and Prince Streets where James Monroe, fifth president of the United States, spent his last years, as been saved, at last. It has been going to ruin for years through lack of care and attention and lovers of American history have feared that it would some day before long be demolished. Commissioner Enright has announced that a purchaser has been found for the place and that it will be restored to its original condition. It will cost $10,000 to restore the interior.

Two days after the announcement that Commander Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army in the United States, had been removed from that position by General Bramwell Booth, of London, the New York postal clerks thought an unseasonable Christmas impulse had hit the country. Literally thousands of letters came in protesting against this country's losing its beloved Army head. The latest protestor is William H. Anderson, head of the Anti-Saloon League, who included in his plea made yesterday, for her remaining here, a strong recommendation of her stand on the wet and dry question at the beginning of the last Salvation Army campaign. That came just when the opposition to the Eighteenth Amendment was being organized, and Miss Booth took a firm stand in the matter of eliminating James Speyer, banker, as chairman of the Salvation Army Campaign Committee, because he had announced himself as a "wet." Mr. Anderson indicated in his letter an interest on the part of the whole dry forces in the retention of Miss Booth as the head of the Army work in this country.
